PROFILE

Full-stack developer with 2+ years of experience building complete web applications — from the systems working behind the scenes to the interface people actually see and use. Known for clean, dependable work and a practical, detail-oriented approach to problem solving. Motivated by turning ideas into products that are simple, useful, and built to last.

WHAT I DO

- Design and build clean, easy-to-use websites and web applications
- Set up the systems that keep a website or platform running smoothly and securely behind the scenes
- Make sure everything works well on any device, from phones to desktops
- Organise and manage information so it's easy to find, use, and make decisions from Break down
- complex requirements into clear, practical, working solutions
